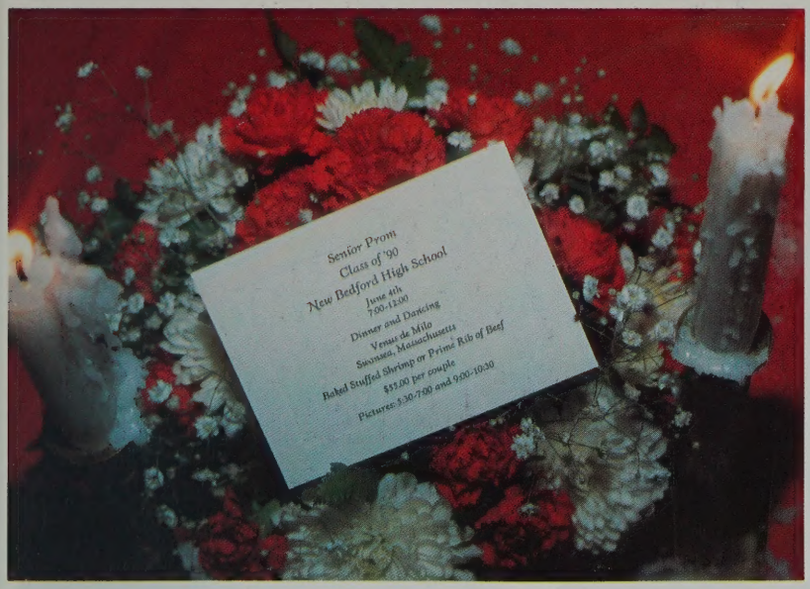
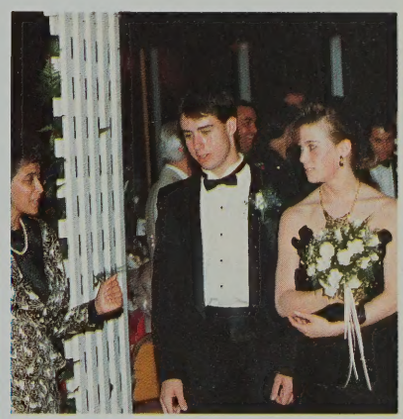
SUPPLEMENT

STARTING OUT IN STYLE!

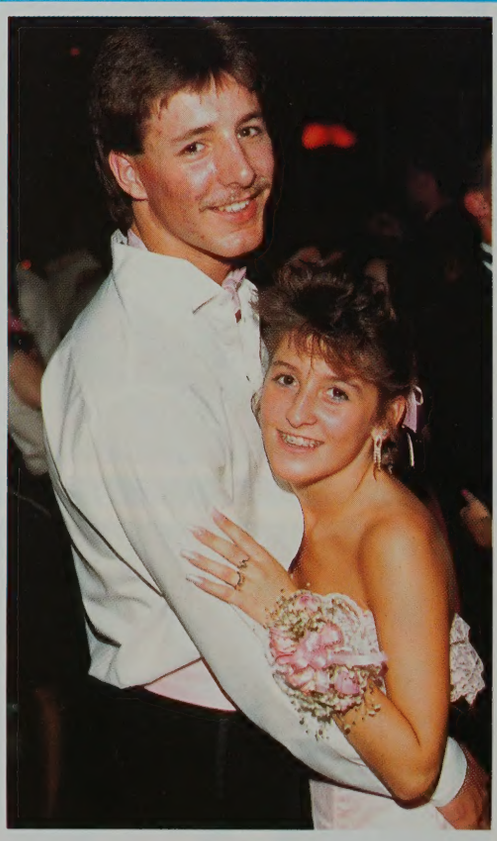


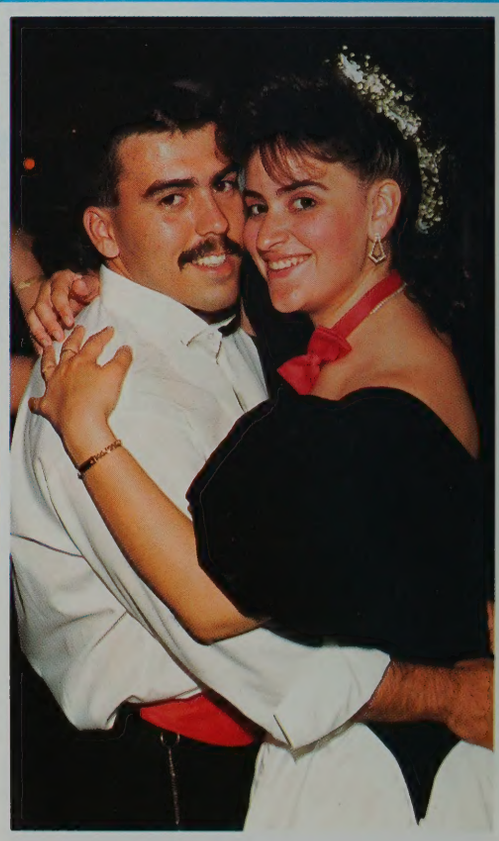
On the evening of June 4, 1990, couples arrived in style — glitter, glamour and glowing. The Venus de Milo ballroom, decorated with candles and flowers, greeted the couples, as they paraded through the flower-decked trellis.

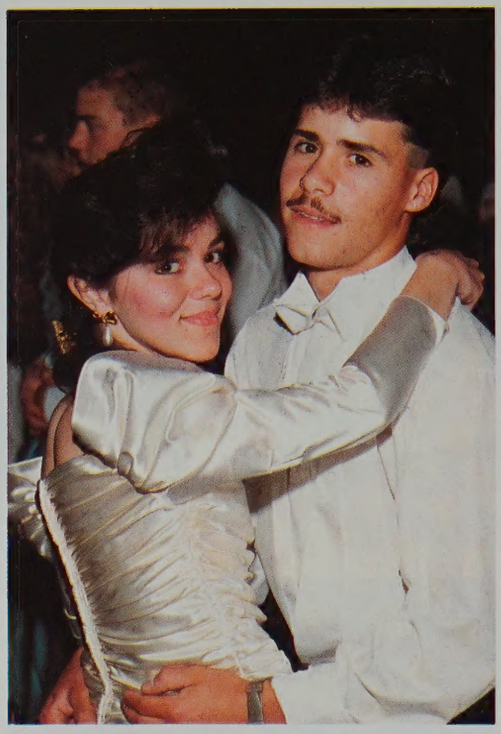
Many posed in front of the red, white and silver ballooned '90 on the stage. The music changed from slow to fast, and everyone kept pace. At evening's end everyone left with souvenir goblets and happy smiles.

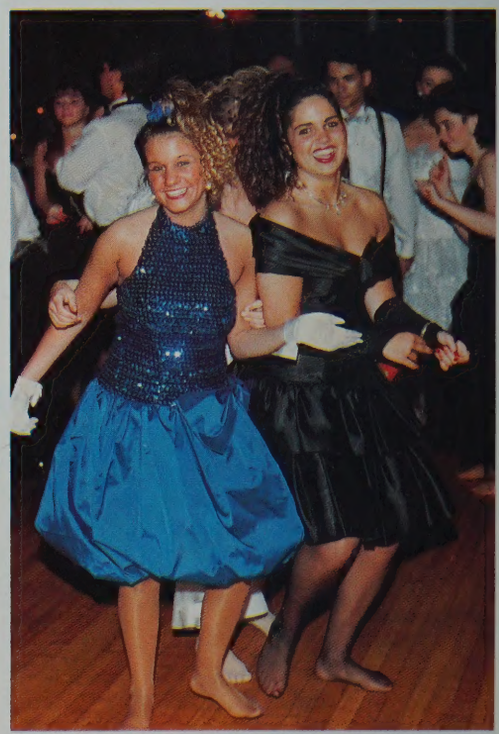


Seniors waited patiently as members of the steering committee were introduced. Each representative received a special gift from the class.





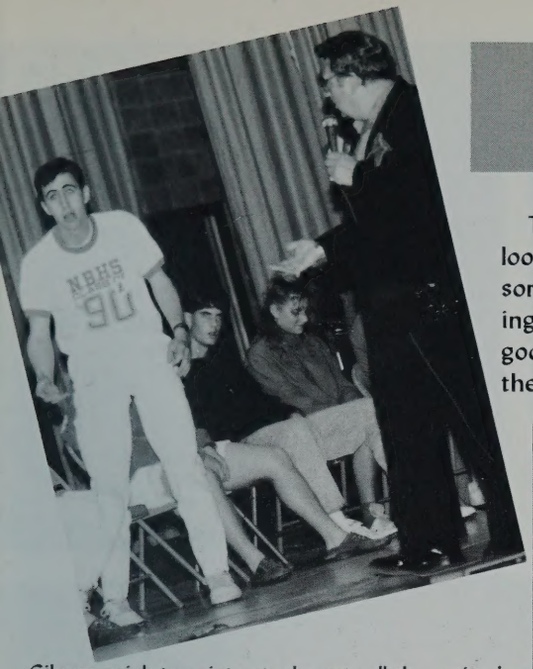




Couples enjoyed themselves by dancing every number and joking around with friends. They posed in front of the trellis of flowers or in front of the large '90 decorating the stage, hoping to capture memories of a fun-filled evening for a lifetime.

LOOK INTO MY EYES . . .

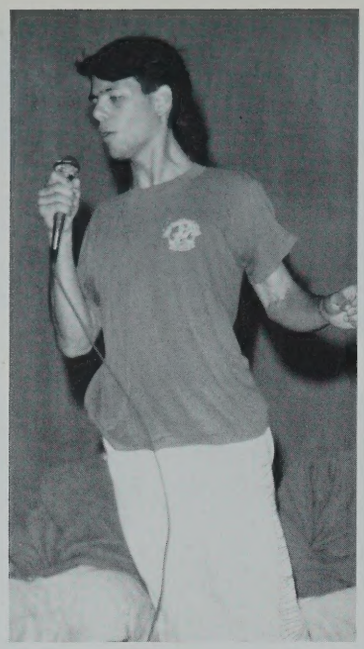
The ninety's were kicked off with a new look for the senior class. An assembly sponsored by SADD brought a message concerning drinking and driving along with lots of good fun. Surprisingly, many seniors wanted the chance to get up on stage and let their classmates have a good laugh at their expense. It proved to be a good time from the opening chorus of "Don't drink and drive; it's suicide . . . " to the final antics of the "superstars" on stage.

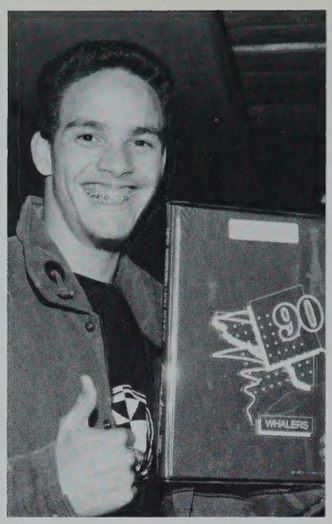


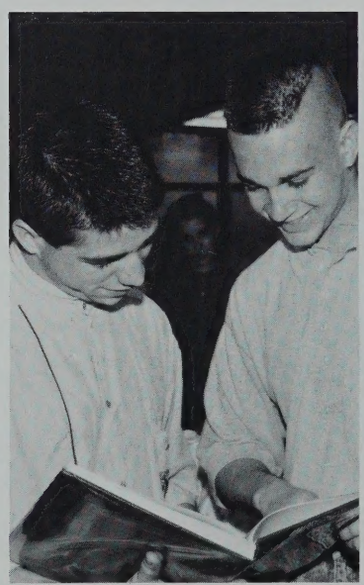
Gil was quick to point out who gets all the seniors' money!

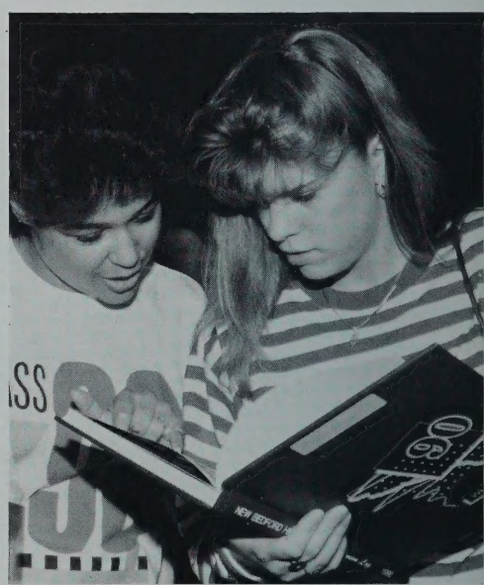
It was later reported in the tabloids that Elvis is alive and was spotted on the stage at NBHS along with other famous superstars!

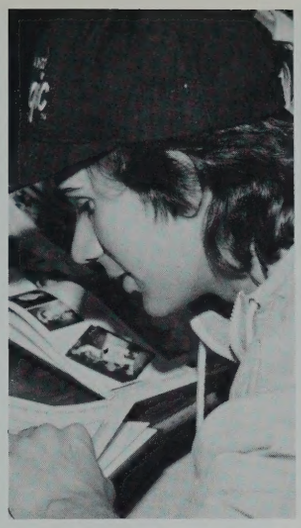
SIGN IN PLEASE

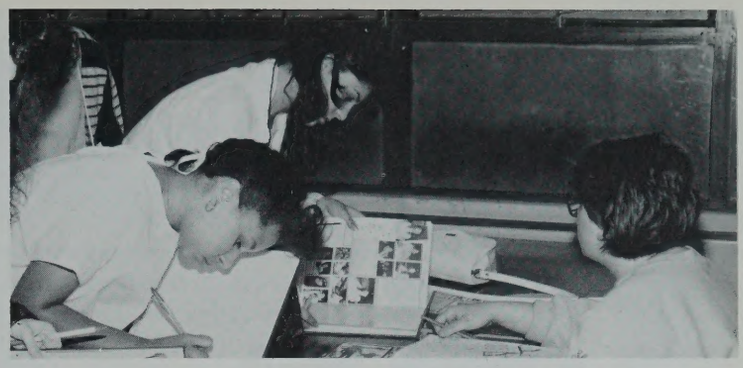




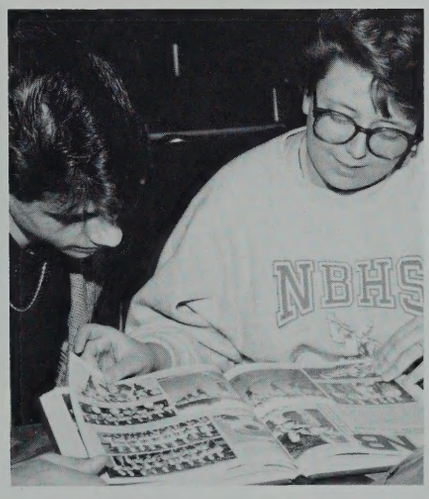








The waiting was worth it, as everyone anxiously looked for his or her own photos in this year's Crimson Log. The signing was furious, and the messages both long and short, depending on the friendships. In fact, some took up an entire page! Will we remember everyone who signed our book now, say twenty years from now?

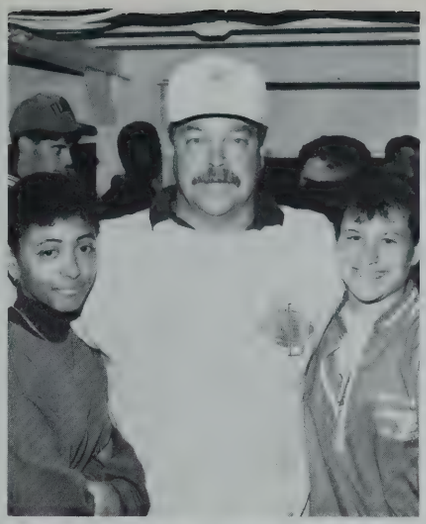


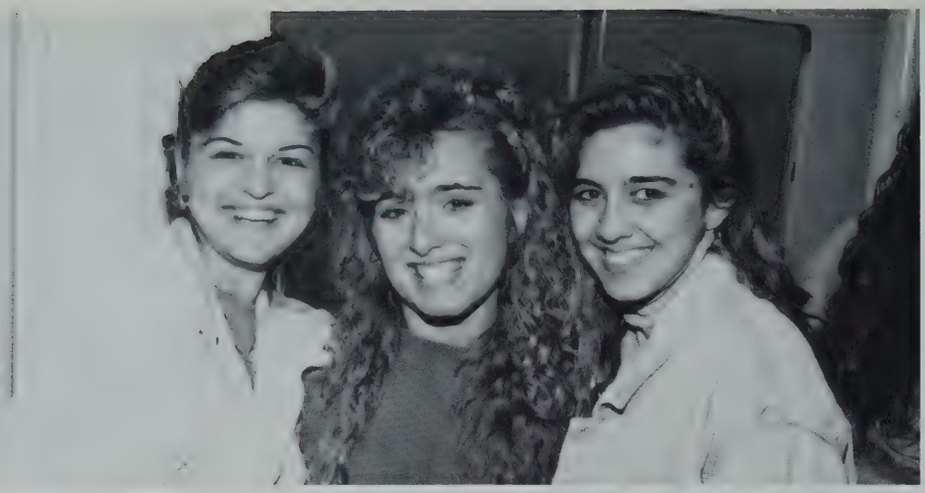
WHALERS ON THE SEAS AGAIN!

All Aboard for Fun

The seniors took to sea again this year as the Schamonchi left the harbor on the evening of May 29th. Dancing and good fun overshadowed the showers. Was the boat rocking from the hot music or the rough seas? It didn't matter, as everyone who made the trip earned themselves a red and white tassel keychain which proudly displayed a '90.

adidas





Whether on the deck or on the dance floor, everyone was geared up for a good time; and they achieved their goal!

BOSTON UNIVERSITY

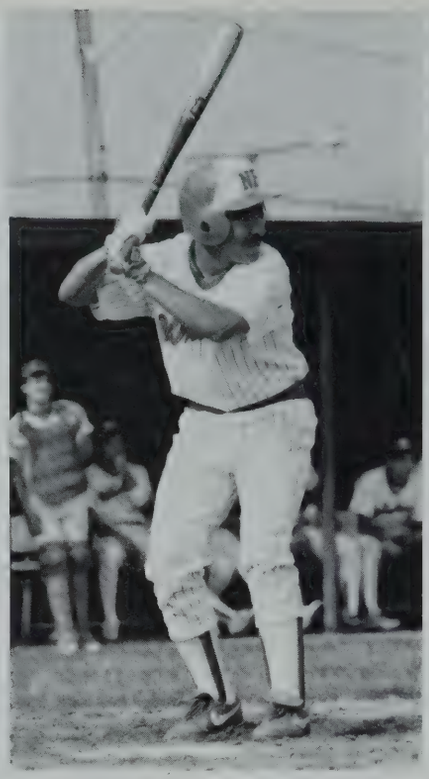
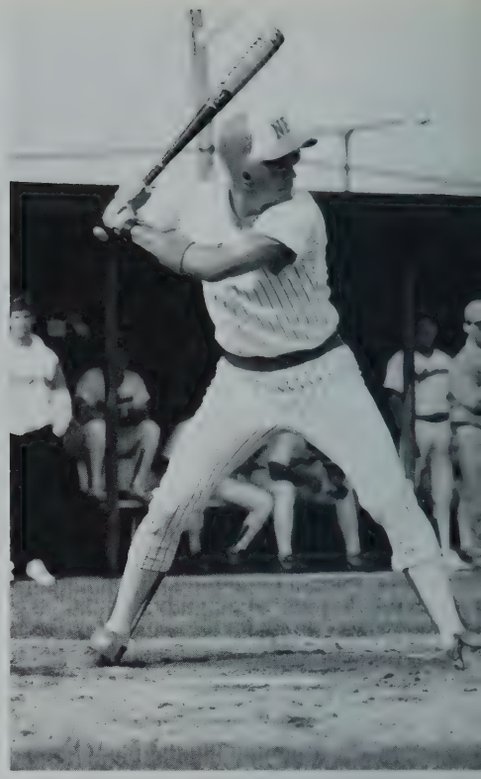
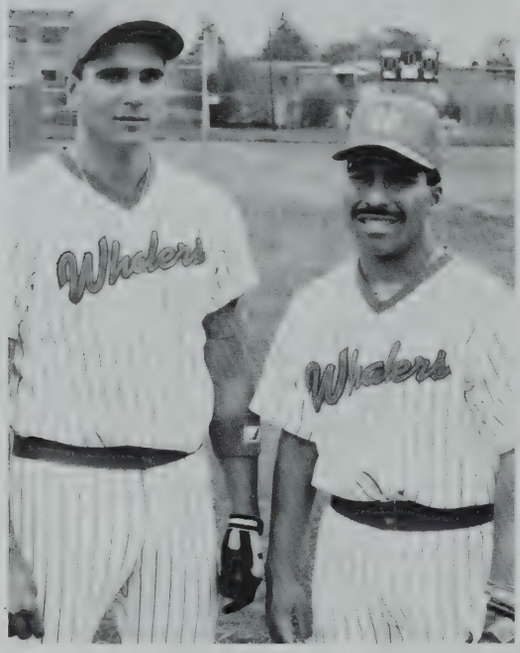
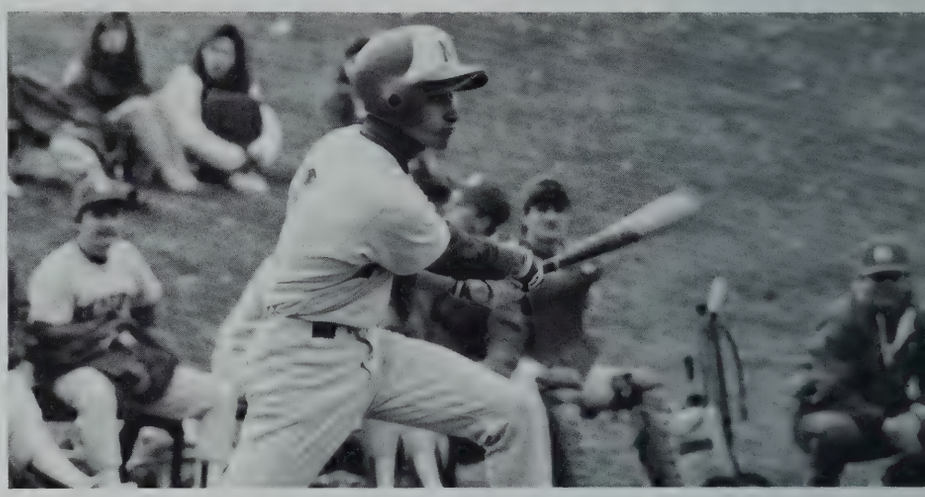
ALMOST THERE . . .

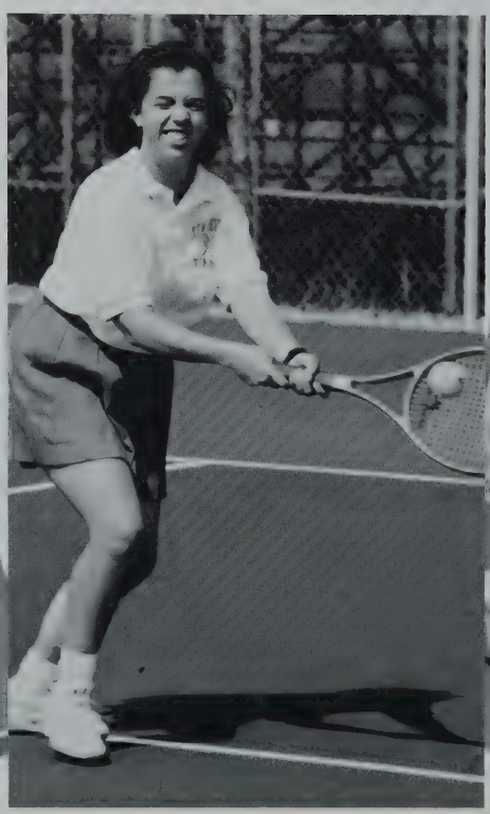
This was a year of both ecstasy and heartbreak for the Whaler baseball team. The come-from-behind victories and the titles won were great moments in the sun; while the heartbreak loss in the state finals was a brief cloud on a great season. The team played with pride throughout the entire season, and the entire city had pride in the team and its coach, Mr. Fernandes.

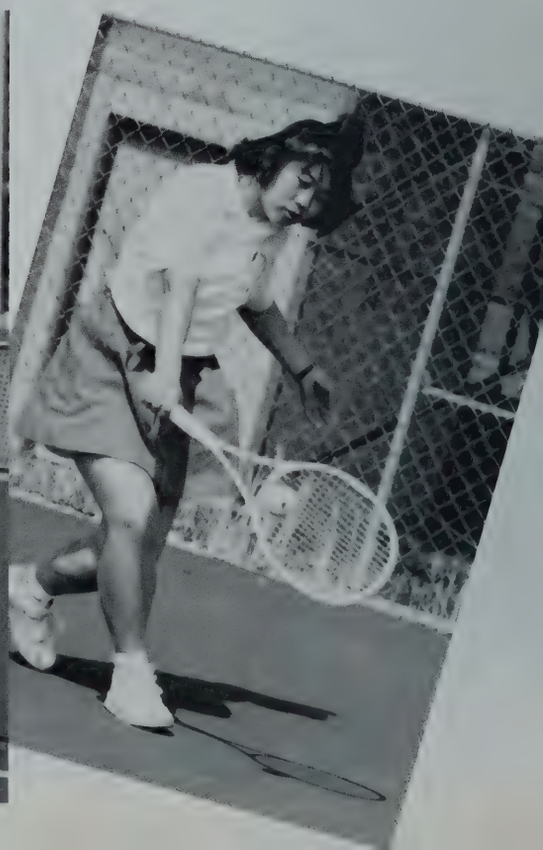




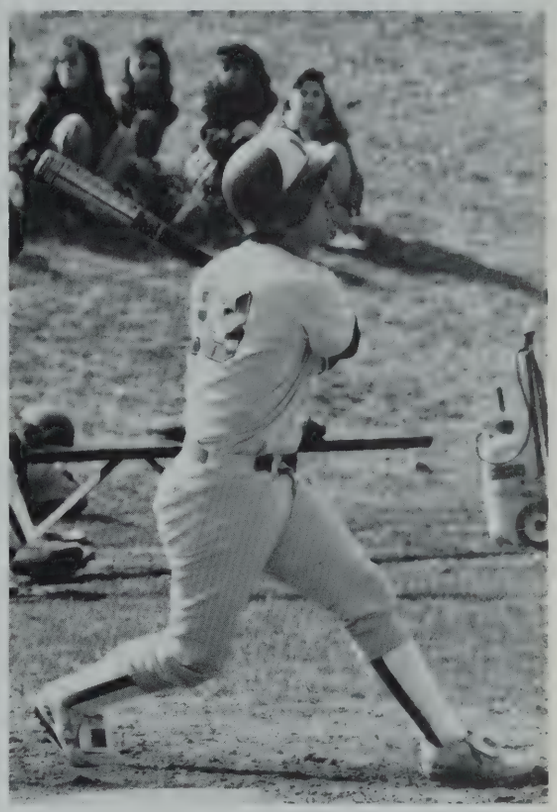




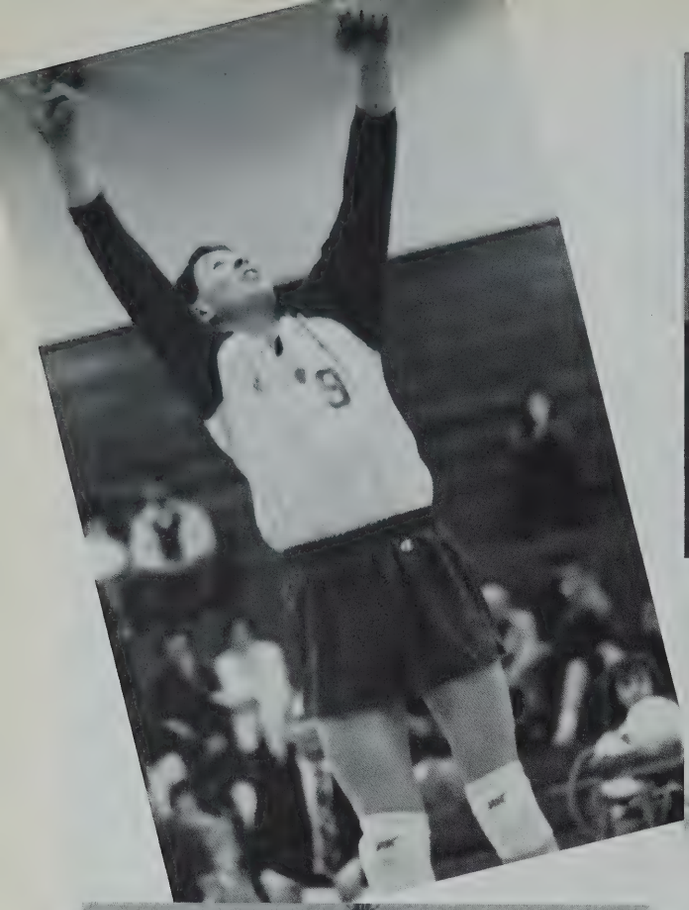


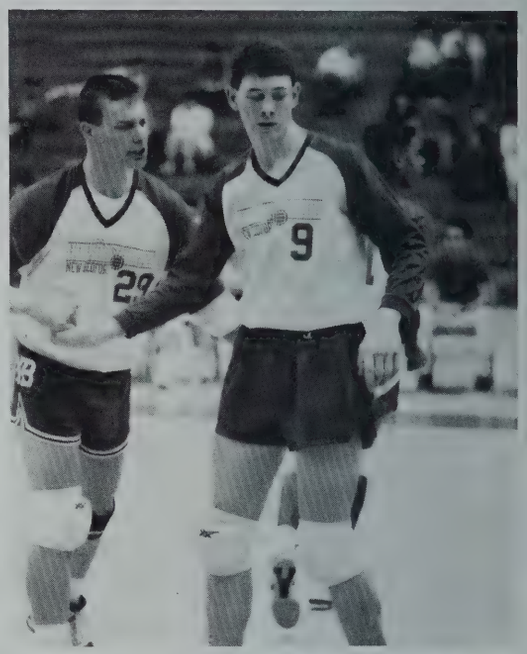


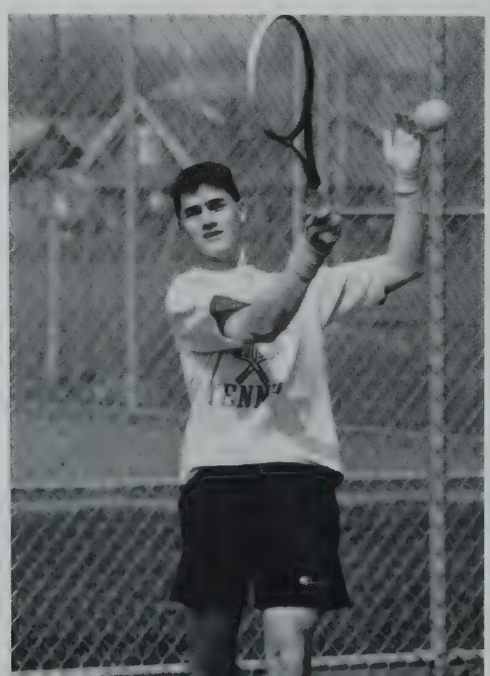
Back (L-R) Coach Fernandes, D. Frakes, K. Souza, W. Fleming, R. Benoit, K. Calvao, T. Jalowick, M. Calnen, J. Oliver, D.J. Nadeau, R. Dunlop (Front) T. Soares, J. Platt, R. Lopez, Q. Feno, L. Bergantim, J. Sylvia, W. Vickery, A. Perron

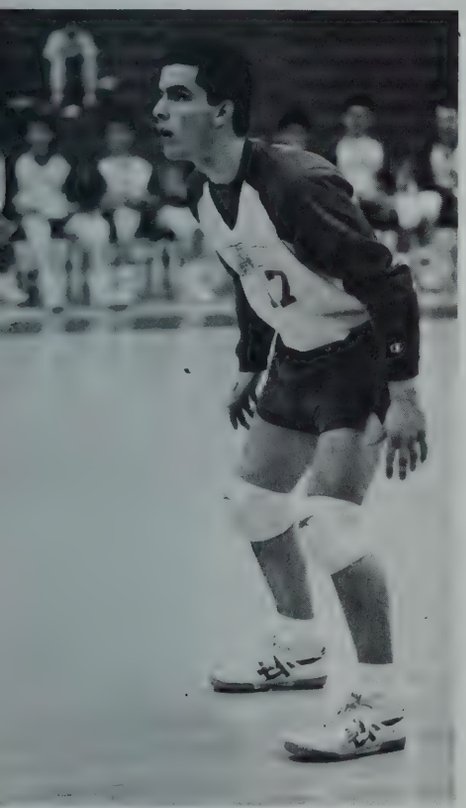


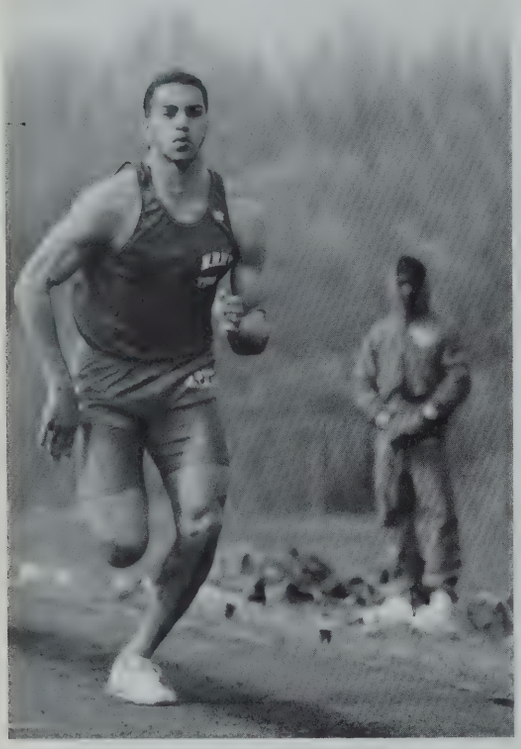
SPRING SPORTS SCENES

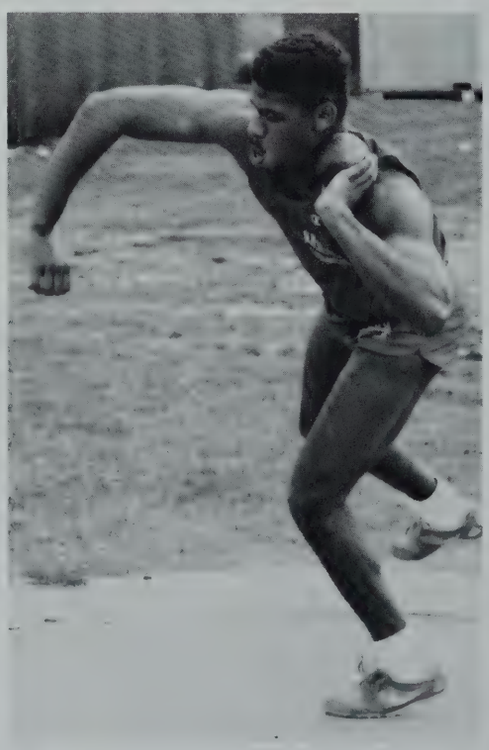


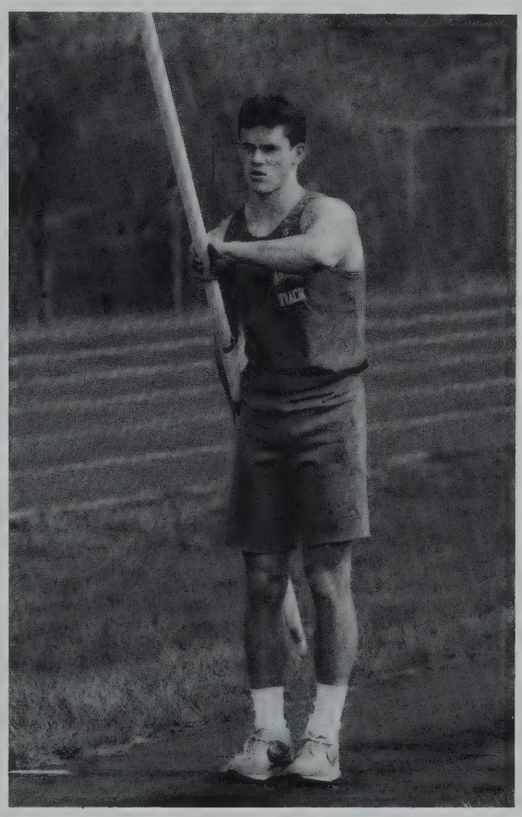












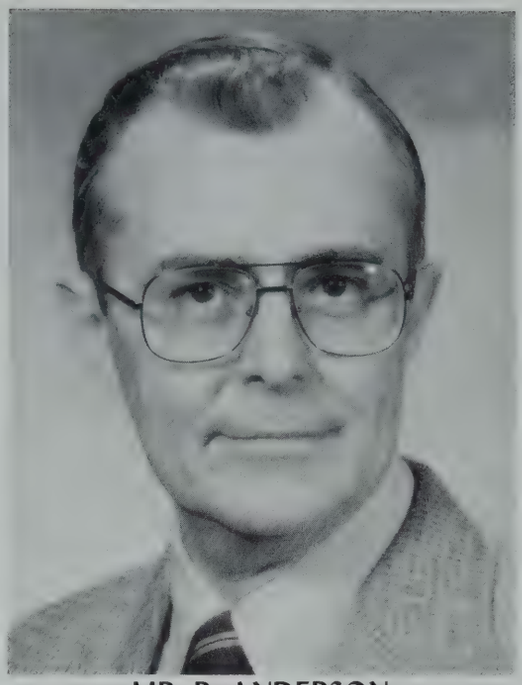
The New England Theatre Conference and the Moss Hart Memorial Award Committee selected the New Bedford High School Drama Club's production of Camelot as the best high school production in all New England! The award was presented to Mr. Charbonneau and Mr. Marchand at the annual convention November 3rd in Portland, Maine.

The Legend of CAMELOT

Lerner and Loewe's Camelot came to the NBHS stage with all the enchantment and majesty of the original Broadway play. Rivaling the performances of the professionals before them, both Jason Duval as Arthur and Kari Pina as Guenevere captured the magic of Camelot and transferred it to the audience. Lancelot was done nicely by newcomer Mac Dunlop, while Peter Guy gave us a touch of humor as Pellinore. Jared Rivet as Mordred played his role well as the audience took a dislike to this menace who sneered at "The Seven Deadly Virtues." Mark Rooney's Merlyn was well-done, as were the performances of the entire cast. Hats off again to all responsible for this success.

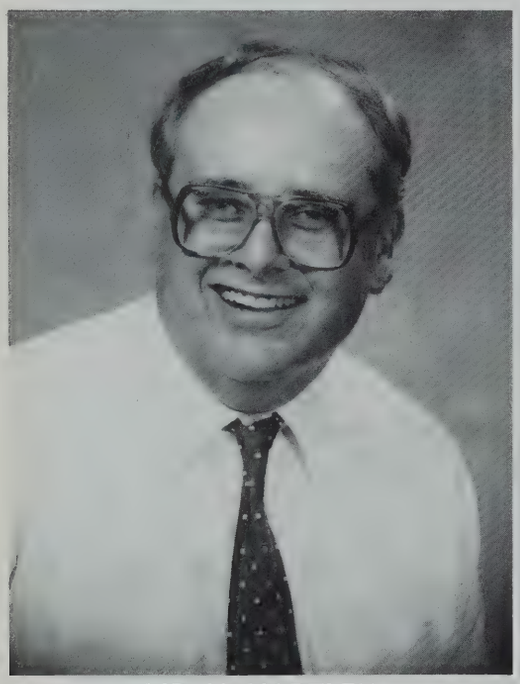
Arthur tells the young boy, who he knights on the field, to spread the word to future generations of the noble ideals that were known to Camelot.

MRS. P. AMARAL
Physical Educ.

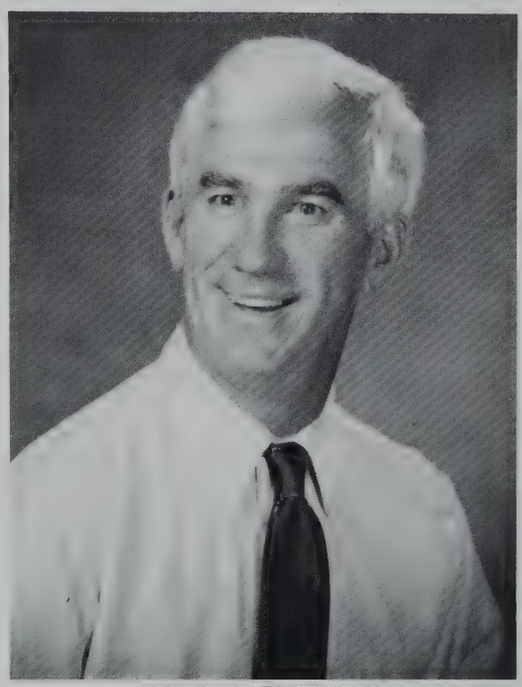


MR. R. ANDERSON
Business

MRS. D. BISAILLON
Science



MR. H. HARTLEY
Science



MR. R. MELANPHY
Spec. Services

MS. P. RAINVILLE
Foreign Lang.

MR. W. WINSPER
Guidance

A New Time, A New Look

Just as the graduates of '90 are headed for a new time and a new look, so are the staff members who have decided to begin a new phase in their lives. Having given much of their time to New Bedford High, these people have now decided to look in a different direction.

We wish them all much happiness and good fortune, along with many years of health and well being.

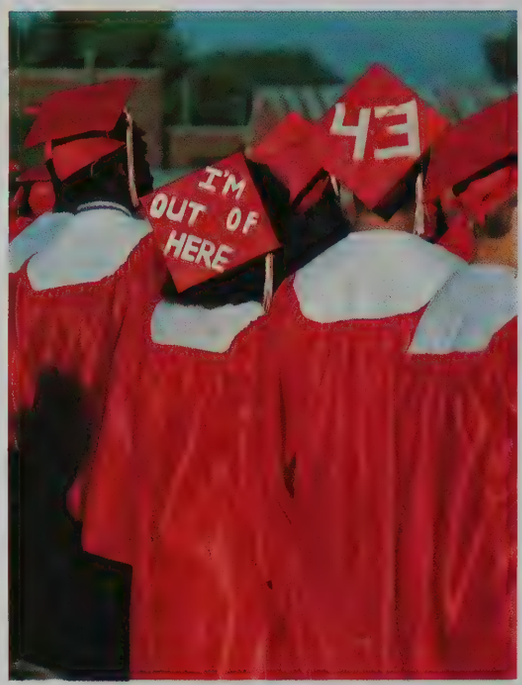
Class of '90

P.S. Also a fond farewell and best wishes to Mrs. C. Ladino who hung up her "pots and pans" as manager of NBHS's kitchen staff to restrict her cooking at home!

HEADED FOR A NEW TIME

On June 7, 1990 the class moved from the gymnasium to the field to begin the ceremony which marked a new time in everyone's life — graduation.

Marching toward the stands filled with parents and friends gave a different slant to times spent at this same field for practice, for games, for competitions; all times leading to this very important time.



43
I'M OUT OF HERE

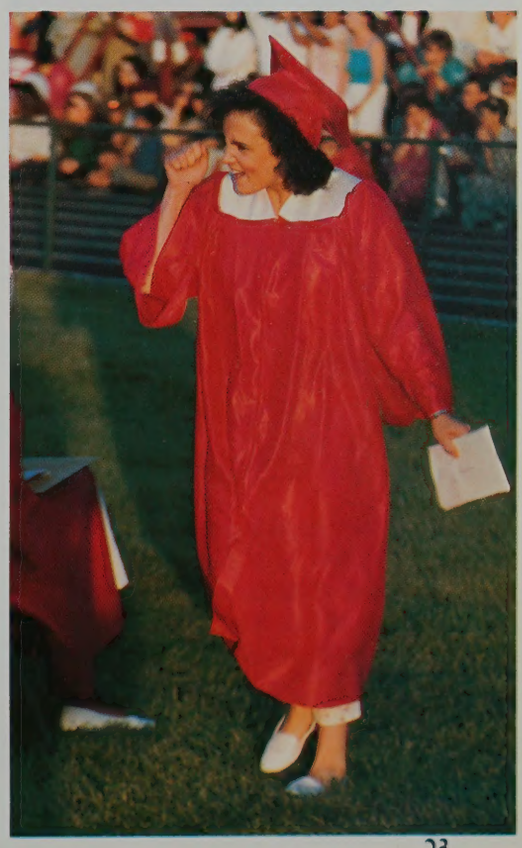
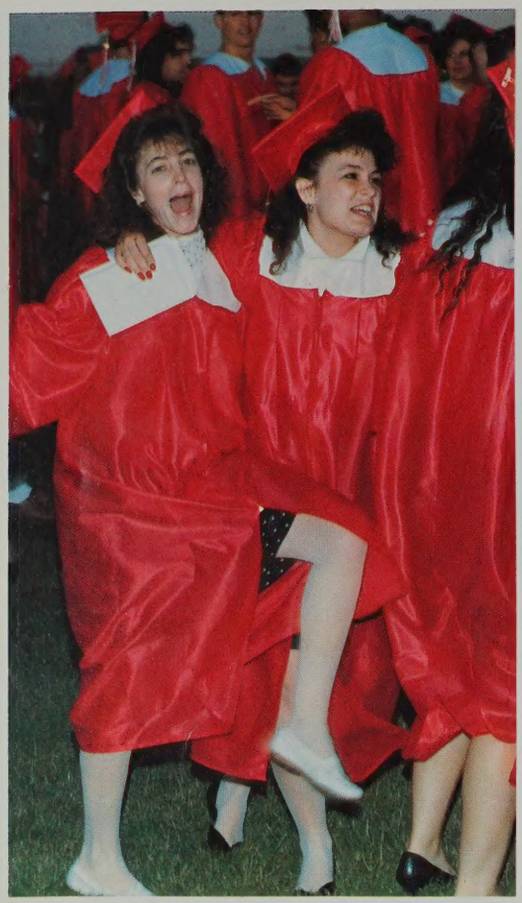
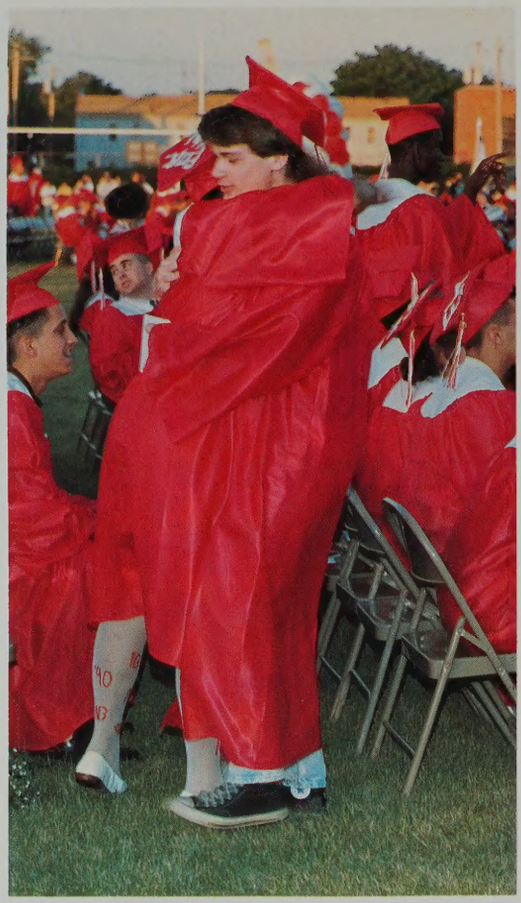
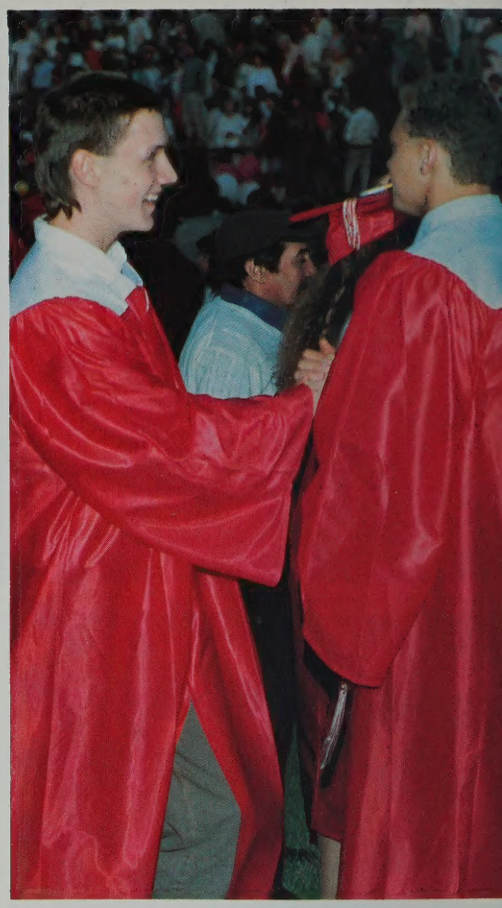
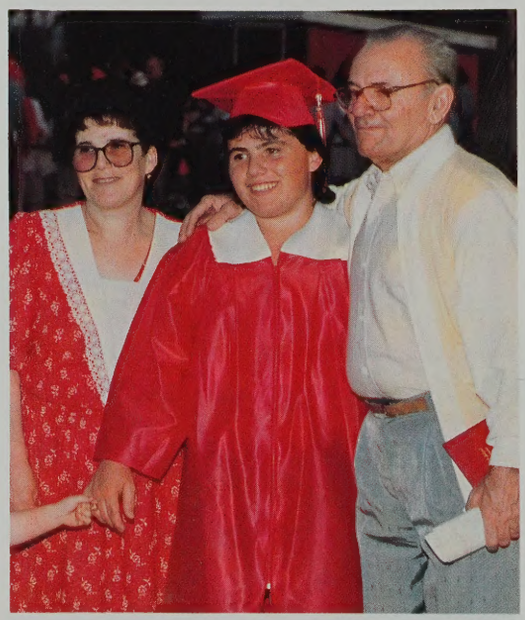
A myriad of emotions were displayed during the ceremony from Matt Martin's inspiring speech to Tony Carreiro's reminiscent thoughts to the final moments.











Everyone expressed their joy and pride at having that precious piece of paper known as a diploma. Seniors kicked up their heels at the thought of "freedom," while parents overflowed with intense pride.